Former mail clerk pleads not guilty

by ANDY PURCELL
campus editor

The former Eastern student who was suspended last month in connection with mail theft in Greek Court pleaded not guilty to felony burglary charges Tuesday and was assigned a March trial date.

Martin Vagena of Richton Park entered the plea before Coles County Circuit Court Judge Ashton Miller, waived his right to a preliminary hearing and requested a jury trial. The trial is set to begin with jury selection at 9 a.m. on March 8.

Vagena's attorney, Ronald Tulin of Charleston, said a preliminary hearing is unnecessary in this case.

At the preliminary hearing, the prosecution, led by Coles County State's Attorney Steve Ferguson, would have presented evidence to establish probable cause for a trial.

Ferguson said although Vagena has only been formally charged with burglary, more charges could be filed if additional evidence is uncovered before the trial.

Tulin said the charges against Vagena are exaggerated.

"They (the prosecution) have him charged with burglary, and we think he is overcharged," Tulin said. "Burglary is the unauthorized entry into a building with the intent of committing a theft. We feel that because he was an employee at the building, they cannot prove that the entrance was unauthorized."

Vagena, who had been a mail clerk for the housing complex, was arrested Nov. 2 and charged with theft in connection with missing mail in Greek Court. A former senior and member of Sigma Nu fraternity, he was suspended from the university after the arrest.

Vagena is appealing the suspension. Proceedings are under way to expel him from the fraternity.

Ferguson said that under the Illinois Criminal Code, Vagena could receive up to a $10,000 fine, three to seven years in prison or probation if he is convicted.

Ferguson said he has not decided what type of penalty to seek.

"At this point I haven't given any consideration to any particular penalty, because it's still real early," Ferguson said. "As the trial gets closer, we will look at our strengths and weaknesses and the strengths and weaknesses of the defense before we make a decision."

Court to lose four new members

by NATALIE GOTT
staff writer

The stability of Student Senate's Supreme Court has come under question with four of the seven appointed members expecting to graduate in May. With the expected May graduation of four of the seven court members appointed by Student Body President Luke Neumann, maintaining any type of stability with the court's membership could become a problem, said Senate speaker Bobby Smith. The court members were appointed to 2-year terms.

However, Neumann said when he was fulfilling the memberships he purposely planned on appointing members so all the terms would not come up at the same time.

"I didn't feel it would be beneficial (to the court) to fill the spots with members whose terms would end at the same time," Neumann said. He added he did not want the court to have seven empty positions simultaneously, which would also eliminate any veteran members on the court.

At last Wednesday's meeting, the Student Senate approved the nominations of April Gowdy, Travis McDade, Stephen Hartsfield, Andy Ramage, John Kohl, Ursula Gordon and Christopher Desmond to the court. Ramage will serve as the chief justice.

Neumann said in order for the court to run efficiently, the terms of the members must end at different times.

The justices who will be graduating in May include Ramage, Hartsfield, Kohl and Gowdy.

"I am not sure what will happen when we graduate. Luke and I will have to discuss the situation," Ramage said.

Neumann said new justices will be appointed to fill the vacancies when Ramage and the other court members leave.

Neumann said all the plans for the court, including the process of training the appointees who will replace the graduating justices, will be established during the second semester. He said he did not want the members to worry about the court during finals week "for the sake of their grades."

Gowdy said the members of the court who would remain following the spring semester will make guidelines for the appointees who will replace the members resigning in the spring.

"I assume there will be a layover period when we (the resigning court member) will be able to train the members who replace us. The members that will remain on the court will also be able to lay a strong foundation for the members," Gowdy said.

Gowdy said she may attend graduate school at Eastern during the next school year and if she does she will not step down from the court.

Student anchors to pilot program

By AMY CARNES
Administration editor

Students will have the opportunity to regularly participate as anchors and readers on WEIU-TV's "Mid-Illinois News Scan," beginning next semester, the station's general manager told the Faculty Senate Tuesday.

Station Manager John Beabout called the joint venture a "pilot endeavor."

"We're learning as we're going," Beabout said. "We don't know what all the problems are going to be."

He said the motivation behind the merger was a goal to provide local news to residents of East-Central Illinois year-round.

"Mid-Illinois News Scan" is a seven-minute newscast that airs Monday through Friday, featuring as anchors reporters and editors of the Charleston Times-Courier and Mattoon Journal-Gazette.

Until last month, when the station agreed to share news and anchoring duties with the newspapers, the broadcast had been titled "News Scan 51" and was produced and anchored entirely by students.

Members of the Faculty Senate had questioned the move to join forces with the newspapers, saying they were concerned the agreement robbed students of hands-on broadcast-news experience.

Susan Kaufman, WEIU-TV news and public affairs director, said it was her idea not to use students as anchors on the newscast, explaining she

'Cocoon' star Don Ameche dies at 85

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Ameche became living refutation of the cliché that there are no second acts in American lives.

The Oscar-winning actor died Monday of prostate cancer at the Scottsdale, Ariz., home of his son Don Jr. He was 85.

As a star at 20th Century Fox in the 1930s and 1940s, he was the studio's utility man. When his film career waned in the 1950s, he moved on to Broadway and television, returning to film in his 70s, and winning the Academy Award as best supporting actor in the 1985 film "Cocoon."

"Don Ameche was a charming leading man, a very good light comedian, and he sang well," observed Leonard Maltin, resident historian of "Entertainment Tonight." "There was nothing he couldn't do. But he wasn't flamboyant and so he was taken for granted."

He was born Dominic Felix Amici on May 31, 1908, in Kenosha, Wis. He spent much of his youth working in his father's saloon.

"I saw all kinds of types in my dad's place, from bums to Mafia hoodlums," Ameche once remarked. "I studied them all, and I used them when I became an actor on radio and later in movies."

"People forget what a great actor Ameche was on radio, particularly on 'The Bickersons,'" said Maltin. He referred to a radio show in which Ameche and Frances Langford, as a married couple, hurled insults at each other. It became the prototype of warring spouses comedies.

Ameche first trained as an actor in the thriving radio scene of Chicago in the early '30s. That brought him Hollywood.

He became part of Darryl Zanuck's stock company, which included Alice Faye, Tyrone Power, Sonja Henie, Jack Oakie, Betty Grable and Cesar Romero.

With his trim moustache and slick black hair, he was the picture of assured elegance. But he left sophistication at the studio and led a quiet life with his wife, four sons and adopted daughters. He shunned nightclubs and never was touched by scandal.

Standoff stalls world trade talks

GENEVA (AP) — An American-European standoff on movies and airplanes is the latest stumbling block for a world trade deal, but the two sides said Tuesday they still have time to make peace before the final deadline.

The failure to resolve differences over import restrictions on movies and TV shows and government subsidies for jetliner manufacturers came after the United States and European Community agreed on cutting farm subsidies. The latter dispute had held up the world trade talks for years.

With the clock ticking away to the Dec. 15 deadline for completion of broader 116-nation talks on lowering trade barriers, negotiators criticized Washington and the EC for not settling all their differences.

Dec. 15 is the last day President Clinton can notify Congress of a proposed trade agreement under "fast-track" rules barring lawmakers from attaching amendments that could kill the accord.

January train wreck blamed on engineers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two commuter trains sideswiped each other in Gary, Ind., last January when one engineer ran a stop signal and the other train operator failed to hit the brakes in time, federal safety officials concluded Tuesday.

The trains were traveling between South Bend, Ind., and Chicago.

The National Transportation Safety Board said the crash — which killed seven people and injured 95 others as cars were peeled open — could have been avoided if the trains had automatic braking devices that can take over when engineers make mistakes.

The board, which has been urging development and installation of such high-tech control systems, said the response to the idea from federal regulators and the railroad industry has been discouraging.

The attitude of the industry seems to be "what can we tell the NTSB to get them off our back ... rather than getting with the job," Robert Lauder, head of the NTSB's rail safety division, told the five-member board.

After a nearly four-hour public hearing, the board decided the probable cause was the "inattentiveness" of David Riordan, engineer of the eastbound No. 7 train that failed to stop at a warning signal.

The engineer of the westbound train No. 12, William Blewett, failed to heed three warnings from his brakeman and apparently did not apply the brakes even when the brakeman ran from the cab as the two trains approached each other, the board said.

Both engineers were fired by the Northern Indiana Commuter Transportation District for failing to take proper safety precautions.

The NTSB also questioned whether railroads are doing good enough job testing train crew members for physical and mental fitness.

wanted students to focus on news-gathering skills and processing and distributing information to prepare for their first professional jobs in journalism.

Kaufman said newspapers and television are "supplementary kinds of media," and the merger is an effort to blend the two. She said the newspaper will help students learn news-gathering skills while the students' presentation skills strengthen the newspaper.

"We are providing production expertise and they (Mid-Illinois Newspapers Inc.) are providing content expertise," Beabout said.

Beabout said there is no formal financial agreement between the newspaper and the television station. The station has not put any money into the newspaper, he said.

Senate member Gail Mason expressed concern about the appropriateness of "advertising" the Charleston and Mattoon newspapers during the broadcast, which reaches an 11-county area.

At the close of the broadcast, anchors encourage viewers to purchase a newspaper for more information on the day's news.

Beabout also said the television station is not ruling out partnerships worth publications. He said including the Charleston and Mattoon newspapers in an announcement contained in the broadcast seemed to be the "ideal starting point."

Senate members also questioned the role of the Radio and Television Center's advisory board in agreeing to the merger between "News Scan" with Mid-Illinois Newspapers Inc. Beabout said the board did not review the programming decision. Because it is not a governing board, the advisory board does not approve or reject actions of the station.

Group receives national award

By ADAM McHUGH
Activities editor

Eastern's chapter of Posting Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students was named the nation's most outstanding chapter of its size last month at the group's general assembly in Florida.

The chapter, which was founded in 1988, was selected for the award from more than 100 chapters at schools with between 5,000 and 15,000 students. A $500 cash award was given to the organization. BACCHUS has more than 100 campus chapters across the nation.

Terry Tumbarello, graduate adviser of the organization, said the award is significant because it gives the chapter national recognition.

"Anytime an organization gets national recognition, it is very important," Tumbarello said.

Tumbarello said Eastern's chapter, which has 35 members, earned the award through smaller programs that it sponsors throughout the year.

"I think even though it is bigger programs that put us over the hump, the smaller programs are very important to us," he said.

Among the programs Tumbarello said Eastern's chapter is known for are bar alternatives such as "The Lighthouse," an alcohol-free dance club.

"The Lighthouse" normally operates on Friday evenings, but BACCHUS sponsored a Thursday night bar alternative earlier this semester. The Wesley Foundation sponsors a Friday night event.

"We started the program a couple months ago and have been keeping it open Thursday nights ever since," Tumbarello said.

Another program Tumbarello said was important to the university was BACCHUS' designated-driver program.

City, IEPA to seek federal grant funds

By ROBERT SANCHEZ
City editor

The Charleston City Council unanimously passed a resolution Tuesday that would permit the city to enter into an agreement with the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency for federal grant money.

In September, the city filed an application for grant money that would be used to fund a $125,000 project to prevent siltation from effecting the city reservoir.

One requirement of the grant is that the city pay $49,000 of the total program cost; the federal government will pay the difference.

The goal of the program is to address two major sources of siltation: erosion and run-off.

One part of the program would involve placing rip-rap and Cypress trees along the banks of the reservoir. This would help prevent waves from eroding the bank's soil.

The second part of the program will establish catch basins to separate dirt from the river water feeding the reservoir.

Alan Alford of the water treatment plant said another part of the program is to get Charleston High School and Eastern students involved.

The council waived the two-week public-inspection period so the city could meet the Dec. 21 agreement-entry deadline.

In other business at Tuesday's meeting:

- The council unanimously passed a resolution that designates the Chamber of Commerce as the city's central tourism office.

- The tourism fund is derived from the city's hotel-motel tax.

- The council unanimously passed a resolution authorizing the tourism board to expend $940 from the tourism fund.

Union cigarette sales proposal may be snuffed

By BRYAN ORR
Staff writer

A September Student Senate resolution supporting cigarette sales at the Sugar Shack in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union is locked in a Union Advisory Board subcommittee and chances it will become a reality are slim, the Union's director said Tuesday.

Joan Gossett, director of the Union, said the Union Advisory Board has created a committee to look into possibly selling cigarettes in the Union. Gossett said even if the Union Advisory Board supported the cigarette-sales resolution, the President's Council, which has the final vote in decisions affecting the Union, would probably reject the idea.

In the mid-1980s, Gossett said, a bill passed by the state Legislature guaranteed non-smokers rights and the right to be free of second-hand smoke.

After this law was passed, Gossett said, the university set strict guidelines for smoke-free campus areas and halted sales of cigarettes on campus.

Gossett said the committee examining the cigarette sales was discussing the senate's resolution with senate member Alec Nevalainen who sponsored the resolution. However, Nevalainen did not attend the Union Advisory Board's November meeting.

"Alec was not at the last Union board meeting," Gossett said. "To my knowledge, he has not met with the smoking committee. No details have been given to the Union board."

Nevalainen was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

The Union Advisory Board meets monthly to discuss resolutions and proposals that could impact the Union. The board is made up of student and faculty members. It makes recommendations to either accept or reject them.

If a proposal is approved by the board, it is sent to Lou Hencken, vice president for student affairs. For final passage, it needs the consent of the President's Council.

Gossett said she is indifferent to whether cigarettes should be sold in the Union.

"It doesn't matter to me whether or not cigarettes will be sold in the Union," Gossett said. "It is going to be difficult to reverse policies that the President's Council has already passed. I don't think that it would be easy to bring (cigarettes) back to the Union."

expenditure of $840 for the board to purchase advertising space in the 1994 Illinois Vacation Guide. An advertisement the board plans to run will feature a picture of Lincoln Log Cabin State Historic Site and will promote Coles County.

Another part of the resolution authorizes the expenditure of $100 for the board to purchase advertising space in the 17th Annual Charleston Holiday Basketball Tournament program.

- The council unanimously approved a resolution authorizing the use of a newly constructed street light located on south University Drive.

- The council placed on file for public inspection a contract with the engineering firm of Clark, Dietz Inc. to coordinate the expansion of a raw water pump station near the city's water treatment center.

- The council placed on file for public inspection a resolution authorizing the adoption of a tree commission booklet.

Bar alternative could be found in Rathskeller

At long last, a viable bar alternative may finally be on the horizon.

As the semester which saw a city-wide crackdown on underage drinking draws to a close, two members of Student Government may have found a possible solution to the so-far unanswered need of bar alternatives.

Editorial

Last week, Student Government Chief of Staff Matt Giordano and Senate Speaker Bobby Smith proposed turning the Rathskeller, located in the basement of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union, into a bar alternative by next fall semester. Their plan calls for the Rathskeller to be open 4:30 to 10:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 5:30 to 11:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

For entertainment, Smith has proposed allowing student or local bands to perform, finding more comedians or other entertainment acts to perform and holding "open-mike" nights for students to perform skits or musical selections. Giordano has said he would like to see pinball machines and arcade games installed. Fruit drinks and non-alcoholic beers would be served as refreshments.

The Rathskeller is currently open weekdays for lunch and is often reserved by the University Board for comedians and performers who come to Eastern. The rest of the time, the Rathskeller goes largely unused. So no one would be displaced or suffer any great hardship if the space were converted to serve as a bar alternative.

Mike Steiskal, dining director of the Rathskeller, said last week he supports the proposal to use the restaurant. For this to happen, the plan must first be approved by the Union Advisory Board. Final approval would also be required from the President's Council.

Both boards should make every effort to approve this proposal. It would finally provide a much-needed, much-sought after bar alternative. It would also give students the chance to prove they are serious about supporting a bar alternative on campus.

If this on-campus bar alternative can succeed at Eastern, it bodes well for others that may come along in the future.

Free speech changing with technology

Bulletin-board rules couldn't have been simpler when the board was made of wood and cork and full of rusty tacks and bent staples. Post your announcements, events or appeals next to the grocery store any way you like, as long as the manager didn't deem them eyesores or unworthy causes.

If the owner of the board preferred not to look at your "puppies-for-sale" flyer, he summarily threw it in the trash.

Now that the "bulletin boards" are hidden in microchips and etched in circuit boards, those time-honored guidelines are beginning to cloud.

The union of low-cost computers and warp-speed information processing is rapidly raising issues of what sorts of information are allowed on on-line computer services. It is a sticky network of largely unexplored constitutional law that could make notable changes in the definitions of free speech.

Print media of any kind, even the telephone-pole tavern promotion, has long enjoyed vigorous constitutional guarantees, affording them the right to safely distribute all but a few types of material without fear of government interference. Radio and television stations, however, live in a knotted regulatory web in which a license is required to broadcast and "serve the public interest."

First Amendment scholars are now debating whether computer services fall into the same category.

That philosophy stems from the idea that the airwaves are actually public property and thus subject to government regulation. If computer transmissions are placed on the same shelf, what comes through a modem may have to meet certain standards.

From any angle, the law leaves a murky gray area. Scarcely a media outlet exists today that doesn't have at least a fraction of its content sent electronically. Because transmissions — anything from memos to voluminous fiscal budgets — can be reach hundreds of thousands of users at roughly the same time, does it qualify as broadcasting?

Chris Sundheim

"The most contentious First Amendment issue of the 1990s is likely to amount to what a PC user may type on his keyboard."

The most contentious First Amendment issue of the 1990s is likely to amount to what a PC user may type on his keyboard and send zipping across satellite links and through fiber-optic lines.

Because computer services vary so widely in their format, scope and access, this has all the makings of a hairy decision preceded by years of squabbling between courts, legislatures and PC users.

Enforcement is a key part of the question. If the number of networks, services and on-line databases explodes as it is expected to, it seems nearly impossible for an agency, presumably the Federal Communications Commission, to effectively watch electronic exchanges. It goes without saying that such a pronouncement can't work without the support of a realistic authority.

Many forms of print media (including racy sex discussions and pornography) are already available electronically.

And assuming the video terminal ultimately overtakes and even replaces countless popular printed products, where would a pro-regulation world leave on-line news media or research groups?

If on-line discussion groups are viewed the same way, supervision of digital correspondences might mean computer discussions would carry some amount of supervision.

Many networks have already installed what might be termed "profanity scanners" that check messages for foul language. In addition, some have human censors who respond to complaints and discipline users who habitually resort to expletives. Hopefully, that private regulation and peer-pressure etiquette will remain the only forms of control.

Everyone, it seems, has a vision of the "information highway." To keep it clear and dry, Washington and the courts shouldn't erect roadblocks over pavement the First Amendment has already laid.

Booth Library's inhospitable system discourages use

Dear editor:

I am writing this letter to congratulate Booth Library on a most clever and original idea. Libraries are expensive facilities to operate and of course, with budget cuts, replacement of materials has become increasingly difficult. However, Eastern's interlibrary loan office has met the challenge.

First, it doesn't warn graduate students and teaching assistants from other institutions that late books are fined heavily. This policy is quite different from other universities around the state. For example, at the University of Illinois, teaching assistants are not fined as long as the materials are returned. Eastern's policy ensures that much money is collected from unsuspecting teaching assistants from other universities.

Second, Eastern's policy also helps discourage use of the library materials. Once my fellow graduate students here learned of the policy, they decided to forego borrowing of any library materials from Eastern. Obviously, unused library books needn't be replaced.

Since I don't attend Eastern, I can't be sure if the library also uses these cost-effective measures with its own students. If it does, I extend an invitation for Eastern students to use the University of Illinois interlibrary loan system. It's not as cost-efficient as Eastern's system, but it is more user friendly.

Letters policy

The Daily Eastern News encourages letters to the editor concerning any local, state, national or international issue.

Letters should be less than 350 words. For the letter to be printed the name of the author, in addition to the author's address and telephone number, must be included. If necessary, letters will be edited according to length and space at the discretion of the edit page editor or editor in chief.

Anonymous letters will not be printed.

Information tells of U.S. radiation tests on humans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has concealed more than 200 nuclear weapon tests since the 1940s and conducted about 800 radiation tests on humans, some of whom were unaware of the risks, the Energy Department acknowledged Tuesday.

"It left me appalled, shocked and deeply saddened," said Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary about information she learned only recently that 18 civilians had been injected with highly radioactive plutonium in the 1940s to determine what doses workers might be exposed to safely.

"It is apparent that informed consent would not have taken place," she said. All the individuals are dead, although many of them lived for years after the experiment.

Learning of the plutonium tests "just gave me an ache in my heart," she said.

Launching a new era of openness about the weapons programs, her department released summaries of previously secret information about nuclear tests in Nevada, the amount of plutonium produced and currently located at weapons factories, and limited information about government tests during the 1940s and '50s on humans to determine the health effects of radiation tests.

O'Leary said she was personally stunned by information she has received about the human testing, although she said she was prevented by privacy laws — and an ongoing internal review — from disclosing details at this time.

Recently the Albuquerque Tribune reported the testing and identified five of the 18 individuals. Those five persons were injected with plutonium as part of work being done by the Manhattan Project in the 1940s in the development of the first atom-bomb.

O'Leary directed that as much information as possible be released, perhaps as early as next June, on the tests involving the 18 people as well about 800 other radiation tests involving some 600 individuals.

The fact that some tests were done on humans in connection with the government's nuclear program has been known for years, but few details have been available and officials have said the participants always were aware of the potential danger.

O'Leary said in the case of the 18 individuals, whose cases are being investigated, she would not rule out a possible lawsuit against the government by survivors. The last of the 18 died two years ago.

Tara O'Toole, the DOE's assistant secretary for environment, safety and health, said some of the 800 tests on which documents are being assembled were "perfectly legitimate, perfectly valid" but that others — especially those involving plutonium doses — were clearly questionable.

O'Leary said of the plutonium-related tests "the majority of the experiments were clearly below ... the standards of correctness."

Meanwhile, the department said it conducted 204 more underground nuclear tests between 1963 and 1990 at its Nevada test range than previously had been announced, or about one-fifth more than officially acknowledged over the years.

Thirty-four of the tests resulted in some release of radiation into the environment, but officials said in each case the contamination was confined to the vast Nevada test area and did not affect workers.

The additional tests, bringing the total to 1,051, were concealed in an attempt to keep the Soviets from finding out about them. Nevertheless, the Soviets all along have claimed there have been 1,080 U.S. tests.

"They were pretty damn close," said Roger Heusser, deputy director of classification at the department. The Soviet surveillance was not always on target. In at least two cases, they lodged diplomatic protests of tests when, in fact, none occurred.

Friends & Co. hosts concert to benefit AIDS Awareness

A concert to help raise funds for AIDS-related projects will be held at 10 p.m. tonight at Friends & Co., 509 N. Buren Ave.

Two bands, Majesty Crush and Crab Daddy, will be performing in the show. Doors open at 9:30 p.m. and tickets cost $3.

Patrons must be at least 18 years old to attend.

All proceeds will be donated to the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual & Allies Union. The union will be responsible for distributing the funds.

Ralph Sordyl, sound technician at Friends & Co., says Majesty Crush, from Detroit, Mich., played in Carbondale Tuesday.

"To say they are an alternative band is vague," Sordyl said. "They have a funky English-rock sound to them."

Majesty Crush has recently released its debut album titled "Love 15," on Dali Records.

Crab Daddy is originally a Boston-based heavy metal band that now resides in Athens, Ga.

Sordyl said organizers planned the event to recognize last week's World AIDS Day on Dec. 1.

"We are a week late, but it is for a good cause, and it is good for the community," he said. "No other group on campus did anything for it so we decided to go with it a week late."

Depending on the turnout, Sordyl said, the concert may become an annual event.

Blacks seated in South Africa

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Blacks took seats in government for the first time Tuesday to help steer the country toward democracy and end 341 years of white domination.

Right-wing whites staged a theatrical bid to stress their opposition to reforms, but their seizure of an abandoned fort hundreds of miles away was dwarfed by the significance of the Transitional Executive Council's first meeting.

"To be part of the TEC means the struggle we have engaged in over the years is bearing fruit," said the African National Congress' secretary-general, Cyril Ramaphosa, as he settled into a velvet chair.

The council, composed of representatives from the ANC, government and other black and white groups, will serve as a government watchdog before the country's first multiracial elections April 27.

Vested with wide powers to effectively veto government decisions, it marks the first time the black majority has had the power to affect the future from within the halls of government.

The election of a new Parliament in April will give blacks their first vote in national affairs since Dutch settlers arrived in 1652.

"Certainly the TEC is the final step in the process to bring about true democracy in South Africa," said the government's constitutional affairs minister, Roelf Meyer, one of seven whites among the 32 politicians who met at the old President's Council chamber.

Each of 16 parties sent two representatives. Three other parties planned to join the meetings later in the week.

Latex causing allergic reactions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Natural rubber latex, the stretchy material used in such items as surgical gloves and condoms, is causing widespread allergic reactions ranging from mild irritation to life-threatening shock, a dermatologist reports.

"Epidemics are not usually discussed in terms of contact allergy, but we are in the midst of one to natural rubber latex," Dr. Ronald R. Brancaccio of the New York University Medical Center said Tuesday. "The importance is highlighted by the life-threatening reactions which can occur."

Brancaccio said there has been no comprehensive study that could provide estimates of numbers of reactions. But he and other doctors at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Dermatology agreed there has been a sharp increase.

No deaths have been reported.

In a lecture at the dermatology meeting, Brancaccio said that hives and other forms of allergic reactions are being reported "more and more commonly," especially among medical workers.

One study, he said, found that 7 percent of surgeons and 5 percent of operating room nurses were allergic to the latex in their surgical gloves.

Even more serious, said Brancaccio, is the growing number of patients who are developing whole-body reactions to latex.

"About a third of patients who develop hives because of latex also develop other symptoms," he said. "They can have hay fever-like symptoms, asthma and even anaphylactic shock. This is a common problem."

Denny attacker receives 10 years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge gave the maximum 10-year sentence Tuesday to the black man convicted of viciously beating white truck driver Reginald Denny and attacking other motorists at the outset of last year's deadly riots.

"It's intolerable in this society to attack and maim people because of their race," Superior Court Judge John Ouderkirk said as he sent Damian Williams off to prison.

Ouderkirk sentenced black co-defendant Henry Watson to probation until January 1997 and to 320 hours of community service.

Police went on alert Tuesday as a precaution against possible violence following the sentencing.

Some black community leaders and even the chairwoman of the jury that convicted Williams criticized the sentence as unfair.

But the city remained calm. Williams, 20, was convicted of attacking Denny and four Hispanic and Asian victims as a rampaging mob took to the streets on April 29, 1992, the first day of the Los Angeles riots that killed 55 people.

Watson, 29, was convicted of misdemeanor assault and pleaded guilty to an assault count against trucker Larry Tarvin. He served 17 months between his arrest and the trial.

The riots were unleashed by the state court acquittals of four white police officers in the videotaped beating of black motorist Rodney King.

The attack on Denny was televised live from a news helicopter and his battered, bloody face became a symbol of the race riots.

Videotape showed Williams in a gleeful dance around Denny's body.

Williams smiled as his sentence was announced, giving a thumbs-up sign to friends in the audience and leaving the courtroom with his arms held high.

Two-time All-American Faulk opts to turn pro

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Marshall Faulk, the two-time All-American running back who put San Diego State on the college football map, announced today that he is giving up his final year of eligibility to make himself available for the NFL draft.

Faulk said at a news conference that he made up his mind three or four days ago.

"I came to a point where I felt like I wanted to come back, but with the coaching change and the year I had, I felt like it was time to go," said Faulk, who wore a baseball cap with the inscription "B PAID."

Faulk hinted two weeks ago he might go to the NFL if coach Al Luginbill and his entire staff were fired, which happened last Tuesday. Among those fired was receivers coach Curtis Johnson, who recruited Faulk out of New Orleans in 1991.

"When coach Luginbill and the rest of the staff with whom I had become friends left, I didn't want to come back," Faulk said.

Ted Tollner, picked as SDSU's new coach on Friday, met with Faulk for a half hour on Monday.

"I had made up my mind before that," Faulk said.

Tollner, who has spent the last seven seasons as an NFL assistant coach, said he didn't try to sway Faulk.

"I told him we'd love to have him, but I wasn't going to try to tell him not to try to playing the NFL," Tollner said.

Luginbill had a 31-25-3 record in five seasons, but the Aztecs blew the Western Athletic Conference title in their final conference games of both 1991 and 1992, and took themselves out of contention this year by losing their last four games.

Faulk had said that winning a WAC championship was more important than winning the Heisman Trophy. He was runner-up to 1992 Heisman winner Gino Torretta.

Instead of playing in the hometown Holiday Bowl as WAC champ, Faulk's only postseason appearance was in a 1991 Freedom Bowl loss to Tulsa.

Faulk almost single-handedly put SDSU in the national spotlight.

He was national rushing champion his freshman and sophomore years and became the school's first AP All-American.

Despite missing nearly six full games due to injuries, Faulk rushed for 4,589 yards, fourth in NCAA history among three-year players, and 57 touchdowns, second on the all-time NCAA list. He caught 82 passes for 973 yards and five TDs.

Sabo to find new team after negotiations fail with Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — General manager Jim Bowden called it a dark day for the Reds. Chris Sabo, the club's regular third baseman since 1988, is just wondering why Cincinnati didn't make a bid to keep him.

"They said all along they'd like 25 Chris Sabos; now it sounds like they don't even want one," Sabo said Tuesday after the Reds failed to offer him salary arbitration. "I'm not bitter. I wanted to ride in a World Series parade with the Reds again." Sabo, 31, can't re-sign with the Reds until May 1. He made $3.1 million last season.

"It's a black day in Reds' baseball," Bowden said. "There is no question that Mrs. (Marge) Schott, Jim Bowden and the Cincinnati Reds wanted to sign Chris Sabo. It is financially impossible for us to sign Chris Sabo, and we aren't going to sign any players to multiyear contracts because we can't expose ourselves financially." Bowden said he offered Sabo a multi-year deal with a raise, but Sabo refused.

"It's a very difficult era for the Reds and baseball," Bowden said. "Middle- and small-market teams are feeling the heat. What's happening here is what happened last winter in the case of the Milwaukee Brewers and Paul Molitor. The Brewers didn't want to let Molitor go. Nobody wants Chris Sabo more than us. That's the reality of it." Sabo, the 1988 NL Rookie of the Year, was an All-Star in 1988, 1989 and 1991. He has a .268 average in six seasons with the Reds with 101 homers and 357 RBIs.

"It wasn't very good foresight," Sabo said of the front office. "Where was their foresight when they signed Kevin Mitchell or Reggie Sanders or Bobby Kelly or Jose Rijo? Now they tell me there's no money left for me." Cincinnati also declined to offer arbitration to second basemen Bip Roberts and Juan Samuel.

Boston hopes Nixon's addition brings speed

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox, hampered throughout 1993 by a lack of outfield speed, agreed Tuesday to a $7 million, two-year contract with free agent Otis Nixon.

Nixon, a switch-hitter who had been with the Atlanta Braves for the past three seasons, was third in the National League with 47 stolen bases in 1993.

Nixon, who turns 35 in January, can earn $9.25 million over three years if Boston exercises an option for 1996.

Boston has been one of the slowest teams in the major leagues for several seasons and didn't have a switch-hitter in its starting lineup this year.

Nixon has excellent range in center field and batted .307 as a leadoff hitter in 1993. Of his 124 hits this year, 31 were infield hits, including eight bunt singles.

Nixon, who has a .259 career average in 11 major league seasons with the New York Yankees, Cleveland, Montreal and Atlanta, has a .988 career fielding percentage. Billy Hatcher, who played center field for the Red Sox for most of the 1993 season, has poor range defensively and only average speed.

"Otis is one of the best center-fielders in baseball today," said Lou Gorman, the Red Sox executive vice president of baseball operations. "He's a terrific leadoff hitter and a dedicated team player." Gorman, who recently was promoted to that post, is acting as the team's general manager until someone is hired to replace him.

Nixon had been unhappy this season in Atlanta, where he lost some of his playing time to Deion Sanders. He hit .269 with one homer in 134 games.

He earned $2,665,000 with Atlanta in 1993, and declined to exercise a player option for 1994 at $2.5 million.

The Red Sox had talked to the Braves this summer about obtaining Nixon, but Gorman said at the time Boston wasn't interested because Nixon was eligible to become a free agent.

has been senior forward Shannon Baugh (7.3 ppg, 7 rpg).

"We're behind our players, knowing that they've been through a couple tough seasons," he said. "They have to believe in themselves because I certainly do."

Even with such a tough stretch of games so early in the season, Klein sees the potential when recognizing the team's competitive spirit. And he isn't ruling out the prospect of them securing some victories along the way.

"We're capable of being competitive with every team we play," he said. "I've seen a lot of things happen over the years."

Klein, who has been coaching basketball 11 seasons, four at Lakeland College and seven at Fort Hayes State, says he feels revitalized coaching the Lady Panthers and facing the task of building the team into a contender.

"It's exciting to get a chance to coach these kids and to face the challenges ahead," he said. "It's definitely lit a fire in me."

And the players, according to Klein, are equally enthusiastic about the challenges in the games ahead.

"They're excited too," Klein said. "We have a long way to go, but it will be fun seeing the improvements."

Lady Panthers in blocked shots a year ago and is well on her way to doing so again. In her first three games, Beck has seven blocked shots, including three in Eastern's 62-58 loss to Murray State in Lantz Gym Monday night.

Polka is doing it on defense with her quickness, compiling a team-high seven steals. Senior guard Beth Salvaggio has six.

On offense, it's the newcomers who are making their presence known. Salvaggio, in her first year at Eastern after transferring from Northern Arizona, is the team's leading scorer at 9.3 points per game. She's also the Lady Panthers'

No. 1 three-point shooter, making seven of 22 shots for a .318 shooting percentage. That also ranks her in the top 10 in the Mid-Con.

Freshman Sarah Probst has hit a team-high 11 field goals and scored 24 points. She is second with an 8.0 ppg average and has grabbed 14 rebounds (4.7 per game).

Senior Shannon Baugh, back with the Lady Panthers after a year's absence, is adding some punch as well. Baugh is the third-highest scorer on the team with a 7.3 points-per-game average. She scored a team-high 12 points coming off of the bench in Monday night's loss to Murray State. She is also the second-leading rebounder on the team, averaging five boards per game.

Polka is once again the team's most generous player on offense and again among the Mid-Con leaders in assists, averaging five per game. Polka is also averaging seven points and 3.7 rebounds per game.

Elsewhere around the Mid-Continent Conference:

• The league's preseason favorite, Northern Illinois has started the season off on a rough note, dropping its first three games. But it's hard to fault the Lady Huskies after looking at their schedule. Northern lost its season opener 73-64 to the University of Oregon and followed that with a 68-60 loss to Loyola-Marymount.

Lady Panthers send mixed messages in early contests

Looking through the Mid-Continent Conference statistics after the first full week of the season, Eastern's women's basketball team could see good news and bad news.

The Lady Panthers are far and away the No. 1 team in the conference in scoring defense, allowing a stingy 59.7 points per game through three contests this season. The nearest team is Western Illinois, averaging 70.3 points per game in three contests this season.

Now, here's the bad news.

The Lady Panthers are last in offensive scoring. Eastern has scored an average of 56.3 points per game, nearly two points per game less than the next lowest team, Wisconsin-Green Bay. Valparaiso, the nation's top scoring team a year ago, is again No. 1 in the conference with an eye-popping 94.3 points-per-game average.

Eastern is also one of the top four teams in the league in scoring margin, being outscored on average by 3.4 points, and field goal percentage defense, with opponents averaging 42 percent.

Eastern is paced on defense by sophomore forward Missy Beck and junior guard Nicky Polka. Beck led the Schedule won't get easier for Lady Panthers

By ANTHONY NASELLA
Staff writer

Looking at the Eastern women's basketball team's schedule over the next month, one obvious fact can definitely be concluded.

It won't be easy, from start to finish.

The Lady Panthers, who have started the season 1-2, will play four respected Division I college teams from among the Big Ten and Big Eight and four Mid-Continent Conference opponents.

Eastern will start the eight-game trip, five games of which will be on the road, Thursday at Indiana State then on to Evansville Dec. 17. The Lady Panthers will return to Lantz Gym Dec. 19 to face the University of Missouri, which dropped Eastern 68-45 last season, of the Big Eight.

Then it's back to the road for three games, first traveling Dec. 22 to Bloomington, Ind. to face the Indiana Hoosiers. It will be the Lady Panthers' first meeting ever with the Big Ten school.

The road trip continues Dec. 30 against the Mid-Con's number-one team, Northern Illinois. The Huskies last season swept the Lady Panthers by scores of 103-57 and 85-58.

The trip will conclude Jan. 2 against Western Illinois. One of Eastern's three victories last season came against Western, 77-71 at Lantz.

Another hope for Eastern is the Westerwinds were ranked ninth in this season's preseason Mid-Con poll, just one place ahead of the Lady Panthers.

Then come Mid-Con contests against Wisconsin-Green Bay Jan. 6 and Wisconsin-Milwaukee Jan. 8 at Lantz. Eastern dropped both games to Milwaukee and Green Bay last season.

"This is definitely a tough stretch of the schedule for us," Klein said. "But we're taking each practice and game one at a time. We're not going to worry about who's ahead."

"We just need to stay focused and keep our heads up during the good and bad," Klein said. "The team needs to keep moving forward."

One player who has made her mark in the young season is senior Beth Salvaggio (9.3 points per game, four rebounds per game), who was named to the all-tournament team at last weekend's Rice University Classic.

Though Klein, not minimizing Salvaggio's honor, believes victories are always the main focus.

"Regardless of who plays well, winning is what matters most," Klein said. "Individual honors will come with winning."

Other starting players who have contributed are freshman guard Sarah Probst (7 ppg, 4.6 rpg), junior guard Nicky Polka (7 ppg, 5 assists per game) and sophomore center Missy Beck (5.3 ppg, 5.6 rpg). Sparking the offensive attack off the bench

Santa, here's this year's sports wish list

Somebody told me a few years back that there was no such thing as Santa Claus. I think it was a kid named Terry when we were in the second grade.

But if the Chicago Bulls are 7-7 without Michael Jordan, the Chicago Bears are tied for first place without Mike Ditka and Memphis does not have a football team named the Hound Dogs, Terry must have been wrong.

With that said, Santa, here's my sports wish list for the year:

- A strong quarterback to replace Jeff Thorne, Eastern's four-year starter. With most other key players coming back, this seems to be the biggest piece of the puzzle missing for Bob Spoo's team next season.

- This one may be a little more difficult, but please bring Michael back. The Bulls are 7-7 without him, but I bet he's starting to miss the game already. Maybe you could talk to him?
- A National Football League team

best time to boast of being a Mets fan, but we really need this one. Howard Johnson, Eddie Murray and Sid Fernandez have already left the team that finished with the worst record in baseball last season. Without some key moves soon, 1994 figures to bring more of the same.

for St. Louis. The Gateway City would still have one if it weren't for the joker that owned the last one. What is the city going to do with a stadium but no team to put in it? What about all the fans who planned to purchase season tickets? What about Walter Payton?

- Another miracle for the New York Mets. This isn't the

- A sudden flash of common sense for the Illinois Board of Higher Education. The IBHE is threatening to strip Eastern of its athletic funding by 1996 and leaving the school with no real hope of replacing it. The way I see it, the state must keep funding sports, or we won't have them anymore.

- Did I mention bring back Michael?

- A new commissioner for Major League Baseball but not a weak 'yes' man the owners can push around and manipulate according to their greedy whims. The game needs a boss capable of taking a stand, asserting himself (or herself) when necessary and refusing to back down from a fight. How about Charles Barkley? He'll be needing a new job soon anyway.

- Do not, under any circumstances, bring back Bill Laimbeer. I've been good this year, honest.

- A championship of some kind for one of the teams that calls the Chicago Stadium home. The Old Barn has hosted many a special moment over the years. It's bad enough it must already fade into oblivion without Michael there to give the proper exit it deserves.

- Future success for former Eastern athletic director Mike Ryan. This is one class guy. Enough said.

- An NCAA football championship for Florida State. You may not like 'em, but this is without a doubt the best team in college football.

- A No. 2 ranking for Notre Dame. The Irish can't lay claim to the top spot, but they are at least second best.

So please, do what you can Santa, and I'll leave the milk and cookies in the usual place.

P.S. That's right next to my life-size Michael Jordan cardboard cutout. (Hint, Hint!)
